AD 01

No words. Still scratching.

For autistic kids: soothes and moisturizes dry, itchy skin.

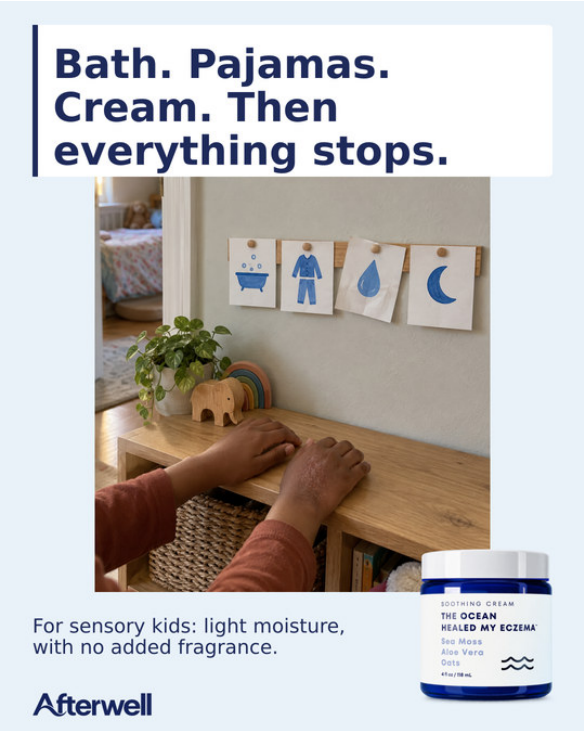

AD 02

For autistic kids, cream can feel like slime.

Light, non-greasy moisture. Soaks in fast.

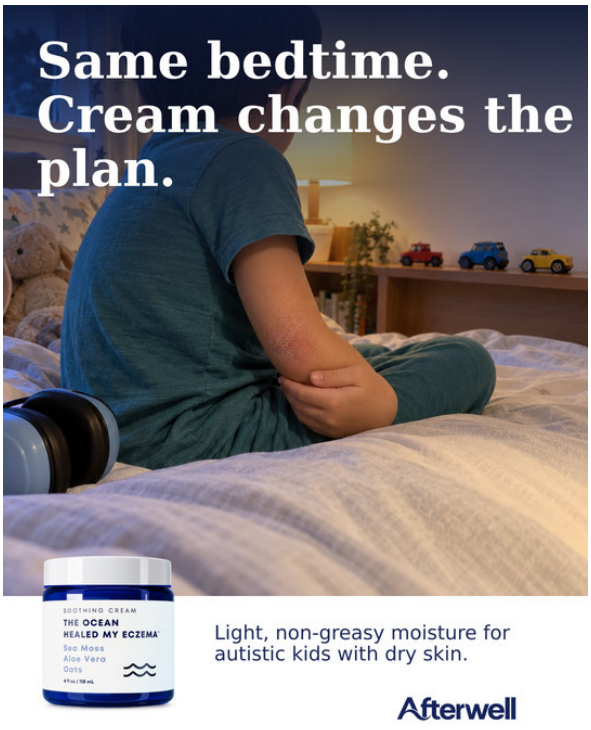

AD 03

Bath. Pajamas. Cream. Then everything stops.

For sensory kids: light moisture, with no added fragrance.

AD 04

Same bedtime. Cream changes the plan.

Light, non-greasy moisture for autistic kids with dry skin.

AD 05

Favourite shirt on. Cream still waits.

For autistic kids: soothes and moisturizes dry, itchy skin.

AD 06

Tags. Seams. Now the cream feels wrong.

Light, non-greasy moisture for sensory kids with dry skin.

AD 07

Cream time waits until the house sleeps.

For autistic kids: light feel. No added fragrance. No steroids.

AD 08

The room is loud. The itch is louder.

For sensory kids: light moisture. No added fragrance.

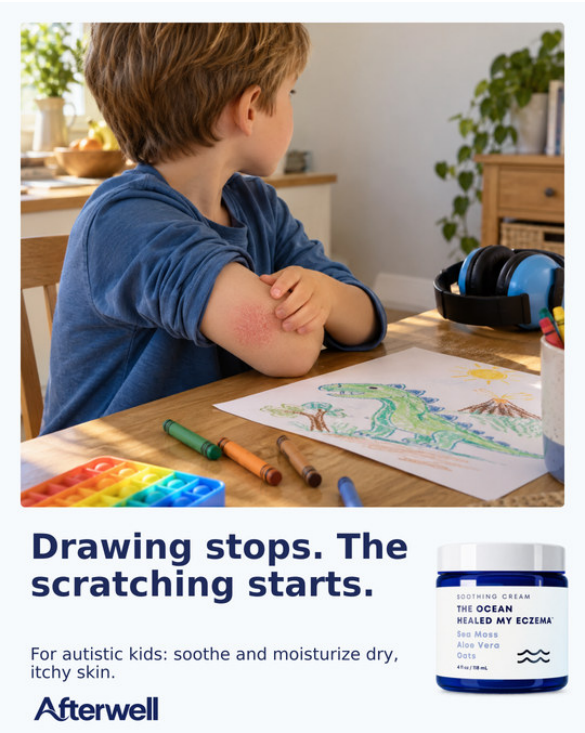

AD 09

An autistic kid keeps rubbing. It could be itch.

Rubbing has many causes. Dry, itchy skin is one.

AD 10

Drawing stops. The scratching starts.

For autistic kids: soothe and moisturize dry, itchy skin.

AD 11

For autistic kids, the feel matters too.

Light, non-greasy feel. No added fragrance. No steroids. Contains oats. Patch test first.

AD 12

Thick cream can still get pushed away.

For sensory kids: light, non-greasy moisture. No added fragrance.

AD 13

Sensory kids notice more than the itch.

Light feel. Soaks in fast. No added fragrance. No steroids.

AD 14

Some sensory kids pull away from cream.

No added fragrance. Light, non-greasy feel. No steroids.

AD 15

So many creams. The feel still matters.

For autistic kids: light, non-greasy moisture. No added fragrance.
Contains oats. Patch test first.

AD 16

A cream card. A little more choice.

Light, non-greasy moisture for autistic kids with dry skin.

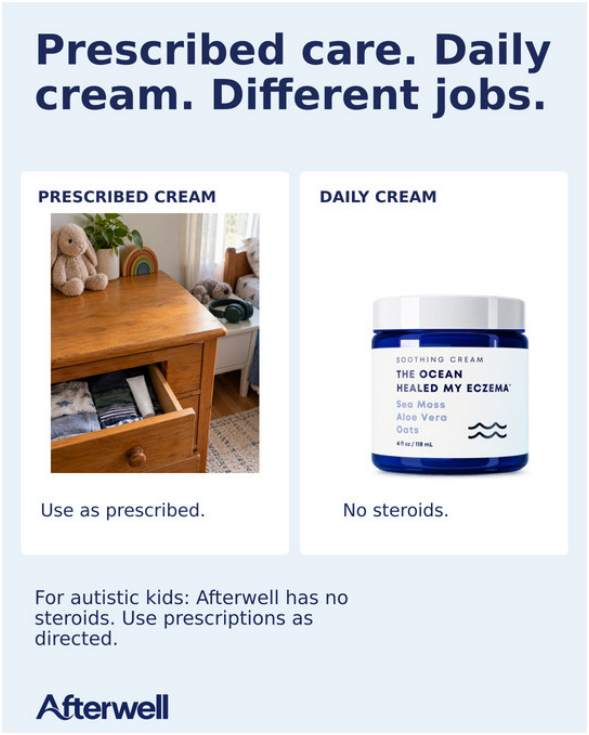

AD 17

Some autistic kids want to apply cream themselves.

One finger. Their pace. Light, non-greasy feel.

AD 18

Prescribed care. Daily cream. Different jobs.

For autistic kids: Afterwell has no steroids. Use prescriptions as directed.

AD 19

Sensory kids notice the first touch.

Light, non-greasy feel. No added fragrance. No steroids.

AD 20

Bath done. Cream is the next hard step.

For autistic kids: light, non-greasy moisture. No added fragrance.